Our house fairy tale

The Golden Goat

Once upon a time there was a boy who went into the forest to gather berries. He turned right and left and collected his basket full. He didn't notice how the sun was slowly setting and night was falling. At the edge of the forest he saw a hut. Then the boy said, "I think I will go and see who lives in it." When he knocked on the door, an old woman opened it. She invited the child in and gave him food and drink. When the boy was sated, she stoked the fire and said:

"It is said that not far from here once lived a mighty king. His castle with its mighty walls stood high up on the „Iron Mountain“, surrounded by a dark forest. No path and no way led to that castle.

The old king ruled justly over his kingdom. The winds were devoted to him and obeyed his will. He could understand the language of the animals. He often roamed the great forests, surrounded by numerous animals of all kinds. Two ravens sat on his left and right. Every morning at sunrise the king went up to the tower of his castle and sent out the birds: "Fly south, north, west, east and bring me news of what is going on in my kingdom." And at sunset his messengers returned to him.

The king was rich. The chambers of his castle were filled with gold and silver. These treasures were guarded by a golden goat. If bad weather moved over the country, then the billy goat climbed to the highest peak of the „Iron Mountain“ and pushed back the clouds with his huge horns and banished the thunderstorms.

At the foot of the „Iron Mountain“ was a sacred spring. Near that lived a woman who knew magic. She was the only human stwwho had ever seen the face of the king. One night the king had a strange dream. When he awoke in the morning, he went to that wise woman and asked her for advice.

When she had heard his dream, she said: "I give to you a golden spinning wheel. Keep it well. As long as it is in your care, your reign will last. If it falls into strange hands, your time is over." Then the king thanked her and the woman disappeared. She never returned to that spring.

Soon after, the ravens told him that foreign warriors had crossed the borders of his kingdom and conquered the land. The king climbed his tower. He saw a huge army making its way to his castle with fire and sword. Quickly the old king ran with the golden goat and all his treasures into the interior of the „Iron Mountain“. He absolved the ravens from their obligation and they flew away.

The golden spinning wheel did not fall into the hands of his enemies. Therefore the king waits inside the mountain until today to return to his castle and to be the king again. But the golden goat goes up from time to time and push back the clouds.

The old woman turned out the light.

When the boy woke up, the hut and the old woman were gone and he was lying on the soft forest floor.

"I will go up the mountain and see if I can find the king," he said, and ran to the „Iron Mountain“. He searched until late in the evening and found nothing.

When he arrived home, the boy took off his shoes. A grain of gold fell from the sole.

But on the „Iron Mountain“ stood a golden goat, and its horns shone in the setting sun....

Postcards with the Golden Billy Goat you can get at the reception for 0,50 €.

Leisure activities in Korbach and its surroundings:

- Take one of the guided tours through the historic old town or take advantage of the many shopping opportunities in the beautiful pedestrian zone.
- You can discover Korbach's past in the new Korbach Museum, which has won awards for its architecture. Here you will not only find interesting facts of Korbach's town history, but also separate sections for gold mining in Goldhausen. Also there were many fossil finds of the „Korbacher Spalte“ (a big fissure with many fossil finds).
- Visit the 250-million-year-old „Korbacher Spalte“, which became world-famous among archaeologists because of the archeological find of the Procynosuchus ("Korbach dog"). An archeological find with long-range consequences.
Free guided tours always on Sunday mornings.
- The „Eisenberg“ (iron mountain) is Germany's richest gold deposit. It is Korbach's tourist highlight with its gold trail and visitor tunnel (open from May to October)

- The heath blossom festival or the blueberry harvest are great opportunities to get to know the impressive Waldeck Upland with the highest mountains in the Hochsauerland.
- Drive through the charming „Waldecker Land“, the „Ederbergland“ and visit the new „Kellerwald-Edersee National Park“

- Visit the largest ski jump in the world in the romantic valley „Strycktal“ in Willingen.
